What We Do

Bridging age-old mindfulness practice and modern neuroscience, Search Inside Yourself helps people in organizations bring out the best in themselves. We use a combination of live training, individual assessments, and ongoing programs to help individuals develop emotional intelligence skills to thrive in our complex, fast-paced society.

Origins of Search Inside Yourself

Search Inside Yourself was born at Google from one engineer’s dream to change the world and has become a globally recognized program. In 2007, veteran Google engineer Chade-Meng Tan brought together leading experts in mindfulness, neuroscience and emotional intelligence to develop an in-house training for Google employees. This became Search Inside Yourself and quickly grew to be the most popular training program in the company. Even after being taught for years at Google, when a new program opens enrollment, it fills almost immediately and receives a long wait list.

In 2012, a separate not-for-profit, the Search Inside Yourself Leadership Institute (SIYLI), was established to meet demand for the program from outside organizations. Google granted the IP and trademark rights to SIYLI which continues to work with Google, as well as other corporate, nonprofit and government organizations around the world to bring the Search Inside Yourself (SIY) program to as many people as possible. SIYLI’s mission is to help create the conditions for world peace.

Why “Search Inside Yourself”?

SIY founder Chade-Meng Tan named the program “Search Inside Yourself” as a play on Google’s search business, and as a playful way to encourage Google’s engineers to search within to develop emotional self-awareness, not just great code.

What Makes SIY Special

The Search Inside Yourself (SIY) Program takes a science-based approach that combines neuroscience, mindfulness and emotional intelligence. Through these three disciplines, SIY helps participants integrate the key building blocks for well-being, collaboration, and leadership. The program is highly interactive. It is approximately one-third content and two-thirds experiential exercises, including one-on-one and group conversations, attention-training practices, listening exercises, and writing activities. Each program is tailored for the client’s needs and presented through a different lens depending on the audience, while maintaining the combination of neuroscience, mindfulness, and emotional intelligence that has made the program successful.

In an SIY program, you can expect to learn:

Mindfulness

According to leader in the field of emotional intelligence, Daniel Goleman, the development of emotional intelligence relies on becoming more self-aware, which can be trained through mindfulness. Mindfulness, being aware and open in the present, enables stability of mind and insight into how you are feeling, thinking and reacting. Mindfulness leads to better judgment and emotional balance, especially in difficult situations. SIY teaches the neuroscience behind mindfulness and how to cultivate it as the foundational skill that enables emotional awareness, a calm and clear mind, and interpersonal effectiveness.

Self-Awareness

Challenging situations require us to have a keen sense of our own reactions and of the patterns of behavior and leadership that we bring to each conversation. SIY’s self-awareness practice enhances your perception of your emotions, habits, and behavior patterns. In particular, you’ll learn to how to gather useful “data” from unpleasant emotions that arise from setbacks, without becoming overwhelmed by them. Outcomes include:

- Become comfortable with your emotional range
- Be able to accurately assess yourself
- Develop self-confidence

Self-Regulation
To navigate our opportunities and challenges, we need to confidently manage our reactions and response. Building on self-awareness, SIY teaches how to identify and work with emotional “triggers” and other difficult situations. In this session, you’ll experiment with a number of practices for working in emotionally charged situations.

- Learn to pause before reacting to your emotional triggers
- Develop inner strength and ability to productively deal with difficult situations
- Increase your resilience and ability to respond to setbacks

Empathy
Effective leaders and teammates are those who can understand colleagues and build relationships and trust. Understanding the science and practice of empathy also supports diverse teams to be more inclusive of their diversity. SIY teaches habits to increase empathy and strengthen your ability to understand others’ feelings and perspectives.

- Understand the neuroscience of empathy
- Develop the mental habits of kindness, goodwill and objectivity
- Learn to attune to the emotional undertone in relationships

Motivation
When your work and life are aligned with your values and emotional tendencies, you will be more engaged in what you do, and more successful in reaching your goals.

- Discover and hone the values that drive your actions
- Learn practices to dream big and increase motivation
- Practice emotional and cognitive resilience, trainable skills that enable you to persevere towards your goals

Leadership Skills
Emotional intelligence is an essential leadership skill. Learn to influence those around you with compassion, even while making difficult decisions, and learn how to communicate with greater insight into the different layers of emotions, perspectives, and identity that drive relationships.

- Become skillful at influencing with compassion
- Gain confidence in creating a positive outcome in conversations where strong emotions are present
- Develop emotional courage to lead others

Mindfulness:
The ability to focus on the present moment with curiosity and openness. It’s a foundational skill that underpins emotional intelligence.

Emotional Intelligence
The ability to recognize your own and other people’s emotions and use this information to guide wise thinking and behavior. Workplace studies show that emotional competencies predict performance, leadership effectiveness, and well-being.

Client Testimonial

“The SIYLI team was fantastic. Their knowledge and experiences surrounding the subject matter were extraordinary. They are seasoned practitioners who embody their teachings. In addition to all the other benefits, much of the program was geared toward improving the Emotional Intelligence of our associates, which I am confident can drive business and leadership success.

The Plantronics team’s response to the class was outstanding. I have had a great many people thank me for bringing the class to Plantronics. ‘A class like none other,’ ‘lifelong skills for both their business and personal lives,’ and ‘life changing’ were some of the comments I received.

I highly recommend this training for anyone looking to improve the way their team works together, enhance their innovative thinking and clarity, reduce stress, improve general well-being, manage difficult conversations and be generally more at peace.”

Barry Margerum
Chief Strategy Officer Plantronics, Inc.

In a survey of over 300 SIY program participants:

- 91% reported that they had enhanced clarity of mind
- 89% improved their ability to reduce stress
- 85% had an increased ability to connect with others
